Part two: Translate the following texts into fluent Persian.(5points)

1. International treaties are less effective when the purposes are vague. This has proved to be true of various treaties intended to protect human rights. Unlike the question whether one State has invaded the territory of another, the question whether a State has violated human rights is nearly always debatable.

2. There are also some cases in which the ownership of property is transferred against the owner's will, for example if he cannot pay his creditors and becomes insolvent. In that case, arrangements are made for an official to sell his property and distribute the proceeds, up to the amount of his debts, to his creditors.
